of the building was alive with men and women trying to escape the flames. Mrs. Cohen and her children were burned to death on the top floor, one child in the room in which it had been sleeping, and the mother on the fire-escape landing with the other child clasped to her breast.

Mrs. Martha Reimer, the janitor's smoke was everywhere. She began to scream, and the alarm was taken up by the other tenants, until the whole six floors were shortly in an uproar.

The fire-escapes on the Norfolk Street side became crowded, and several tenants leaped to the street. Numbers of children were tossed down to the crowd from the landing of the second and third floors. Sadie and Annie Grube, on the fifth floor, were thus dropped and caught.

Three alarms were turned in for the fire, which completely gutted the four upper floors. The damage was about

Woman Killed by a Train.

NEW YORK, March 30.—While picking up coal on the tracks of the New York Central Railroad freight yards yesterday, Mrs. Eva Fanesko, of 73 High Street, Yonkers, was struck by a freight train and killed. Mrs. Fanesko was a widow, and kined. Mrs. Fanesko was a widow, supporting a family. Being out of work, she went to the freight yards to gather coal for a fire to warm the house for the children. While in a stooping position half over one of the tracks she was struck by the cars which were being backed into the yard. The wheels cut off one leg and crushed her to death.

A Walipaper Factory Sold.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., March 30.-The factory of Janeway & Co., wallpa per manufacturers, in New Brunswick has been transferred from the National Wallpaper Company to Henry L. Jane-way, of this city. The deed was filed at the Middlesex County Clerk's office, in New Brunswick, yesterday. The consideration is $75,121.72. Janeway & Co., which for several years was affiliated with the National Wallpaper Company, became an independent concern several months ago when the National Company dissolved.

THE FIGHT FOR THE BOWL.

Annual Contest at Pennsylvania Uni-

PHILADELPHIA, March 30.—The annual "bowl fight" between the freshman and sophomore college classes of the University of Pennsylvania took place yesterday afternoon on the old athletic field. Despite the fact that the thermometer wife, was the first to awake. She says registered only 3 degrees, and that the that when she leaped out of the bed the the under-class men, bareheaded and barelegged—and two of them in the cosing moments of the struggle with few clothes on-battled bravely

Frank was selected as bowlman. The freshmen planned to place Frank, according to rule, ten yards in advance of the main body of students, but at the signal to begin the fight Edward was to rush forward to take his place, while Frank was to be spirited away. At it was the object in this half for the sophomores to place the bowl man in the bowl it was calculated that if the sophomores should succeed they would have the wrong man. But the "sophs" were "foxy," and to avoid any such complications they locked avoid any such complications they locked Edward Diefendorf up in the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity house before the fight

Edward Dietendorf up in the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity house before the fight started.

At the eleventh hour A. L. Cloud was selected as bowlman, and the two classes lined up for the fray. Referee Hare biew his whistle at 1:15 and the fight was on. The sophomores made a good attempt in their half and suceeded in getting the bowlman near the bowl, but could not get him in it. Accordingly this half was declared in favor of the freshmen.

In the second half the freshmen were the aggressors, it being their duty to secure possession of and to break the bowl. The sophomores, however, were too strong, and, surrounding the bowl, they kept the freshmen away from it during the twenty minutes. This half went to the sophomores, and the fight was declared a draw,

During the fight about 500 of the upper classmen rushed on the field and, surrounding the "scrappers," urged them on to their utmost. It was difficult to tell which was the fiercer of the two fights, that of the freshmen and sophomore or that of the upper-class men, who struggled for places of vantage.

The quickest relief for a cold is by Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil.

You will find the edge taken off in a night; and, in three or four days, you'll be wondering whether that cold amounted to anything anyhow.

That's relief. If you tackle it quick, the relief is quick; if you wait, the relief won't come-you know how colds hang on.

We'll cend you a little to try, if you like.

A CHAIN OF COAL DEPOTS

This Government Wants Stations in All Parts of the World.

Negotiations With Portugal, Hol. land, and Other Countries in Progress - The Old Rights at Yoko. hama and Pitcher Lake Revived.

The State and Navy Departments have been engaged for some time preparing to arry out a policy under consideration for mber of years, but not entirely en tered on until after the Spanish-American war, for the establishment of a chain of United States coaling stations around the world. It is understood that negotiations are in progress for the acquirement of a station in the Azores, from Portugal, and of one of the islands of Curacao, just off the coast of Venezuela, from Holland. How far these negotiations have progressed it is impossible to learn, as the officials decline to give any details. There is reason to believe also that communications have been exchanged with clothes on battled bravely.

After rushing, pulling, tugging, and struggling all over the old field for ferty minutes the officials announced the usual result—a draw—and both classes left the field, giving voice to shouts of victory and yells of definine.

The "bowl fight" is peculiar to Pennsylvania, and is the last scheduled fight of the college year between these classes. For this reason it is attended with more than usual interest. Fully 1,000 people, chiefly upper-class men and members of the professional departments of the university, witnessed the "scrap" from the portico of the new dormitories and on either side of the old field.

For weeks the "freshies" and "sophs had been planning for this last contest of brawn and muscle. After numerans committee meetings and conferences a set of rules, drawn up by the senior and junior college classes, and approved by Vice Provost Smith, were finally agreed upon and the date for the event decided.

Promptly at 1 o'clock the rival classes togged out in all sorts of clothes, came upon the field. Football suits were the most numerous, some of the more timid participants taking the event peculian of the kind of the kind of the college of the answer. for coaling depots.

THE JEFFERSON IN RUINS

Richmond's Magnificent Hotel Destroyed by Fire.

The Loss Estimated at About a Million Dollars, Probably Two-thirds Covered by Insurance-All Guests and Servants Gotten Out in Safety.

RICHMOND, Va., March 30.-The Jefferson, the most magnificent hotel in the South and one of the most beautiful caravansaries in the world in point of architecture and furnishing, is a charred mass of ruins. It was practically completely destroyed by fire last night, entailing a loss of probably more than $1,-000,000, two-thirds of which is covered by

The blaze was the fiercest Richmond as experienced since the evacuation in 1865, and the entire fire department augented by many men employed by the hotel company, were at work since the flames first appeared until 5 o'clock this morning, when only the beautiful Franklin Street end of the hotel bore a semblance of what it had been before the fire had done its ghastly work.

Almost the entire population witnessed the burning of the Jefferson. To the peoole of this city the destruction of the ho tel is almost a personal bereavement, as the structure was one in which they took the greatest pride.

The building covered half a block in the ultra-fashionable part of the city, fronting on West Main and West Franklin Streets. The flames broke out in the upper part of the Main Street side, just under the famous Convention Hall, a large glass encased garden on the roof, and spread with a tremendous rush. Soon that part of the building was a seething mass of fire. Prompt measures were taken to awaken and alarm the guests and soon they were rushing through the corridors in wild confusion.

Immediately upon the discovery of the fire, which was eating into the ceiling of the linen room, the hotel fire apparatus was brought into play, but the hose burst.
Attendants then dashed through the building awakening the guests, many of whom were sleeping and had to be drag-ged out of bed. Most of the guests on the Franklin Street end of the hotel aved their baggage, and finally the Jefferson statue of snow-white Italian marole was gotten out with the head broken the fire department was at a great dis-

The theory regarding the origin of the ire is that it started from electric wires. For half an hour after the fire was first discovered the hotel patrons mingled in social pleasures in the dining room

The entire fire department was called out, but it was soon seen that the eight streams were of no earthly avait in checking the ravages of the roaring flames. Starting upon the top floor, one by one the floors burned, dropping a seething mass of debris into the beauti-Pitcher Lake, near La Paz, Mexico. Pitch- ful apartments below. Flames caught the costly tapestries and barst in resistles fury from every window until the im-mense structur was wrapped in sheets of fire that curled in fantastic shapes about the solid walls.

Probably no one save Major Ginter and those associated with him in the construction and fitting out of the building ever knew its actual cost. Major Ginter de-tested publicity and would never say how much of his wealth was consumed in the stay. erection of the Jefferson. It is reported. however, that just prior to his death several years ago he said he regretted two things in connection with his life more than any other two, and those were that he had built the Jefferson and had never

The decision of the Navy Department to retain Commander Tilley at Tutuila was due partly to a petition of native chiefs, addressed to President McKinley, them. The chiefs said many complimen tary things about Commander Tilley in their petition, which has been borne out by recent reports about the great sat isfaction which his administration given to the people of Tutuila and the American in the islands.

The principal reasons for the decision of the Navy Department to keep Commander Tilley in Samoa are that he has made admirable progress in establishing the naval station and has shown himself to be a man of tact and decision. The affection in which the commander is held by the natives was not gained, the naval officials say, by letting them have their own way in everything, but by wise and practical treatment of them.
